The International Development Research Centre is a public corporation created by the Parliament of Canada in 1970 to support research designed to adapt science and technology to the needs of developing countries. The Centre's activity is concentrated in five sectors: agriculture, food and nutrition sciences; health sciences; information sciences; social sciences; and communications. IDRC is financed solely by the Parliament of Canada; its policies, however, are set by an international Board of Governors. The Centre's headquarters are in Ottawa, Canada. Regional offices are located in Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East.

Le Centre de recherches pour le développement international, société publique créée en 1970 par une loi du Parlement canadien, a pour mission d'appuyer des recherches visant à adapter la science et la technologie aux besoins des pays en voie de développement; il concentre son activité dans cinq secteurs : agriculture, alimentation et nutrition; information; santé; sciences sociales; et communications. Le CRDI est financé entièrement par le Parlement canadien, mais c'est un Conseil des gouverneurs international qui en détermine l'orientation et les politiques. Établi à Ottawa (Canada), il a des bureaux régionaux en Afrique, en Asie, en Amérique latine et au Moyen-Orient.

Preface

This is the tenth volume in the Devindex series issued by the International Development Research Centre (IDRC). The present issue contains entries from the Netherlands, the Soviet Union, Sri Lanka, and Canada.

The main bibliographic index of this issue is organized in categories representing the purpose for which the document was produced:

A Facts, Trends, and Analyses
B Prescriptions for Decision-Making
C Official Policies, Plans, Programmes, Arrangements
D Development Action: Operational Experience
E Consequences and Evaluations
F Resources and Tools for Development

Four other indexes follow the first: subject, geographical, institution, and author. The names of countries are represented by two-character ISO codes[1] supplemented by codes for regions. In the subject and geographical indexes, the codes represent the countries to which the information in the document applies. In the institution index, the code represents the country where the institution is located. The complete subject index appears in both English and French.

Users of Devindex should direct their requests for documents to the participating institution of the country in which the documents were produced when the material cannot be obtained from the source identified in the reference and provide the reference number of each document requested. A list of participating institutions follows this preface. Most of the Canadian documents are available from IDRC in the form of microfiche to users in developing countries.

Records in this issue were processed by MINISIS software developed at IDRC for use on a Hewlett-Packard 3000 computer. A magnetic tape containing the records included in this and previous issues of Devindex is available, in ISO 2709 format,[2] to institutions that want to use it for experimental purposes or for information retrieval.

This issue, which was typeset directly from a computer tape, was compiled with the help of Marie-Paule Djoubou and Lois Fitzpatrick.

Préface

Ceci est le dixième volume de la série Devindex préparée par le Centre de recherches pour le développement international (CRDI). Ce numéro comprend des enregistrements des Pays-Bas, de Sri Lanka, de l'Union soviétique et du Canada.

L'index bibliographique principal du présent numéro est ordonné en fonction de l'objectif de l'auteur, sous les rubriques suivantes :

A Faits, tendances et analyses
B Recommandations pour les prises de décisions
C Politiques, plans, dispositions et programmes officiels
D Actions de développement : expériences pratiques
E Conséquences et évaluations
F Ressources et moyens pour le développement

Il est suivi de quatre index : par sujet, géographique, par institution et par auteur. Les noms des pays sont représentés par les codes de l'ISO[1] complétés des codes régionaux. Les codes de l'index par sujet et de l'index géographique indiquent les pays dont traite chaque document. Dans l'index par institution, le code représente le pays ou se trouve l'institution. L'index par sujet est en anglais et en français.

Les utilisateurs de Devindex sont priés de s'adresser directement aux institutions participantes appropriées lorsqu'ils ne peuvent obtenir un document de la source identifiée dans la référence, en citant le numéro de référence de chaque document demandé. Une liste des institutions participant à DEVSIS suit cette préface. La majorité des documents canadiens sont disponibles au CRDI sous forme de microfiche pour les utilisateurs des pays en développement.

Les notices contenues dans ce numéro ont été traitées grâce au logiciel MINISIS développé au CRDI en fonction de l'ordinateur Hewlett-Packard 3000. Une bande magnétique contenant les notices figurant dans ce numéro et dans les précédents peut être obtenue, en format ISO 2709[2], par les institutions intéressées à effectuer de la recherche documentaire ou des expériences sur la base de données.

Ce numéro de Devindex, composé directement à partir d'une bande d'ordinateur, a été produit avec l'aide de Marie-Paule Djoubou et Lois Fitzpatrick.

World Congress on Communication and Development in Africa and the African Diaspora, 2d, Bridgetown, BB, 23-28 Jul 1983.

☐ Presents statistical data and projections in order to provide insight into the magnitude of the problems posed by growing disability rates in developing countries. Points out that the high incidence of disease and disability is, in part, related to the perpetuation of political and economic systems which inherently create and maintain wide socio-economic disparities between segments of the population. Concludes that the solution to the disability problem depends on the ability of Third World governments to carry out structural, political, and economic reforms. Handicapped, preventive medicine, community, developing countries - health services, health planning, development strategy.*

☐ Observes that large organizations exhibit a natural conservatism - a tendency to continue doing the same things in the same way while the external demands placed on an organization may change - and that failure to respond positively may result in an organization becoming redundant or even disappearing completely and giving way to new organizations attuned to the contemporary situation. Discusses recent institutional changes in the sphere of irrigation water management in water management in Sri Lanka that illustrate this choice between adaptiveness and redundancy demonstrating that it is not yet clear whether the institutions traditionally concerned with the construction of irrigation potential will be able to adjust to current pressures to make better use of that potential already in place. Institutional framework, irrigation*, water management*, Sri Lanka.*

☐ Shows how, in Calcutta, even under conditions of total proletarianization, a large segment of the labour force in peripheral social formations continues to provide the capitalist mode of production with a source of cheap labour and thus a means to lower the cost of production. Highlights specific ways this process is occurring, through the articulation of different types of wage, work within the household. Stresses the impact of the traditional role of women in the perpetuation of this system. Wage earners, labour intensity*, slums, household, India - capitalist, modes of production, female manpower, casual workers, low income, domestic workers, statistical data.*

XP LK 5219 Vithanage, Nelson Chena-paddy interrelationship and dry sowing: the experience in an irrigation scheme in Sri Lanka. Sri Lanka Journal of Agrarian Studies (LK) v.3(1), Jun 1982. p.34-52.

☐ Discusses two of the main problems which limit agricultural production in most of the major colonization irrigation schemes in Sri Lanka: insufficient use of rainfall, and wasteful use of stored water. Points out that the main reasons for these problems are the priority given to chena cultivation and inadequate farm power for land preparation, and recommends land preparation with mechanical power within a short time, preferably a significant portion of it while dry or following the first monsoon rains and practice of dry sowing (kekulan) with paddy. Indicates that the annual net farm income is considerably higher if mud sowing is carried out as at present in December, when compared with dry sowing in September and that the continuing of chena would not impede the development of paddy culivation. Agricultural production, land settlement, shifting cultivation*, farming, rice*, sowing.*

CA) Capitalist penetration and local resistance: continuity and transformations in the social relations of production of the Sagada Igorots of Northern Luzon. 1983. 261p. Ph.D. thesis. (Unpublished typescript - CA).

☐ Analyzes the effects of the penetration of capitalist market and commodity relations on the indigenous social relations of production and reproduction of the Sagada Igorots of Northern Luzon in the Philippines. Studies continuity and change in the indigenous social relations, in terms of access to resources, the distribution and circulation of both means of production and the social surplus, and the organization of labour. Emphasizes the ways in which the Sagada Igorots have resisted the loss of control over their resources and the excessive disruption of community and household-based cooperative relations of reciprocity and exchange. Resistance to change, economic conditions, community development*, society, trade, capitalism*, mountains, Philippines - political integration, colonialism, means of production, ownership, cooperative movements, plant production, history, bibliography.*

XP LK 5241 Perera, U.L. Jayantha Leaders in changing rural Sri Lanka - a typology. Sri Lanka Journal of Agrarian Studies (LK) v.3(1), Jun 1982. p.1-10.

☐ Suggests a typology of leaders - traditional, elected and politically appointed - to facilitate the study of changing patterns of rural leadership in Sri Lanka. Argues that changes in the sources of rural leadership during the last half century were mainly an outcome of the expansion of state activities into rural areas and its concomitant process of politicization of rural communities. Leadership, political leadership*, rural communities*, Sri Lanka.*

XP LK 5242 Ransinghe, P.C.H. Private motor cars and the traffic in Colombo city. Economic Review (LK) v.9(8), Nov 1983 p.23-27.

☐ Analyzes the data collected from a traffic survey conducted in the city of Colombo. Concludes that if the number of private cars on city roads is limited, while a better public transport service is offered to the average traveller, the benefits would include, less expense for the authorities to maintain the city road network retaining the capacities of roads at present levels without the need for further expansion, a reduction on fuel oil consumption and on road investment. Also suggests that stricter measures be introduced for enforcing road safety, speed limits and driver competence. Traffic, automobiles, towns*, road network*, transport, fuels, Sri Lanka.*

☐ Examines the impact of colonial and post-colonial government policies on food production in Ghana, and shows that political and economic factors have been undermining food production. Reveals that shortages of both capital and consumer items needed by most small farmers have been important in discouraging agricultural production. Food production, food supply*, economic aspects, political aspects, government policy, Ghana - investments, public expenditures, price control, marketing, transport, statistical data.*

☐ Uses Kenya as a case study to determine whether a deliberate and large-scale development of international tourism can help to bring about development in a peripheral capitalist economy in the face of the protectionist policies of developed countries. Argues that international tourism as operated in Kenya cannot serve as an appropriate development option since it tends to perpetuate the country's dependence and, to some extent, accentuate underdevelopment. Tourism, development strategy, Kenya - economic implications, social implications, environmental effects, statistical data.*

☐ Studies the theory and the actual practice of "Melanesian Socialism" as advocated by the Anglican priest, Walter Lini, and his associates. Concludes that a socialist society has not been created. Argues that the government does not seem to represent the "masses" so much as the interests of the national bourgeoisie, and that Lini and his associates cannot be responsible for the failure. It would be more accurate to see them as victims of The Pacific Way, an ideology which tried to synthesize various local appeals for upholding of tradition. Socialism, political ideologies*, Oceania - political theory, economic aspects, social aspects, political aspects, political parties, government, attitudes.*

☐ Examines and interprets the Buddhist doctrine regarding the participation of persons in slaughter trades such as fishing. Show that existence of such trades is accepted by the religion as being part of social reality, and argues empirically that, while Buddhist fishermen, by and large, subscribe intellectually to the doctrine regarding the taking of life, their actual behaviour is determined more by economic advantage than by religious considerations. Shows that, in the case of Sinhala Buddhists, the effect of religion on personal decision-making with regard to participation in the fishing industry is largely a function of economic position. Buddhism, fishing*, religion*, Sri Lanka.*

☐ Analyzes the role of appropriate technology in Canadian development agencies such as CIDA, IDRC, CUSO, etc. Suggests common characteristics in the application of appropriate technology to rural areas; studies the impact of government policy on the choice of technology for developing countries; and discusses more specific issues such as the transfer of wind power technology from North America to developing countries. Shows how important energy availability is in determining the appropriate technology for rural areas in less developed countries, and gives the few examples of where multinational corporations have made useful contributions to appropriate technology in these countries. Appropriate technology, choice of technology*, developing countries - science policy, social implications, technology transfer, labour intensity, power demand, renewable energy sources, wind energy, multinational enterprises.*
